

LEADERS' QUEST

Compassion X is about the gap between cleverness and wisdom, and how compassion can help us close the gap. It's an invitation to join a global conversation and explore the bold ideas that can help us transform our collective path to the future.

We invite you to use these questions to kick start your Compassion X conversations. We hope they'll be useful stimulus for self reflection and discussions with family, friends and colleagues.

Three questions to ask ourselves

- What do I most deeply love?
- What gifts do I have to offer?
- What are my most important responsibilities?

Three questions for the workplace

- How does our work contribute to something larger than ourselves?
- How do we create environments where everyone can flourish?
- How are we balancing today's priorities with those of future generations?

Three questions for society

- What common values do we wish to live by?
- How do we balance our own beliefs and priorities with respect for other perspectives?
- How do we reimagine learning and human development to respond to the world as it is?
